

Discrete vs Continuous Predictions

In the last few videos, we learned that continuous error functions are better than discrete error functions, when it comes to optimizing. For this, we need to switch from discrete to continuous predictions. The next two videos will guide us in doing that.

